STAT

Your daughter, Mary, came in to see me yesterday and, naturally, charmed me.

Arrangements have been made to take her on, subject to the completion of our usual formalities, and the question remained as to when she could come to work. We should like her as soon as possible, but I realize that she may wish to take a little holiday before getting down to work. Also the question comes up for making arrangements for an apartment here. Perhaps she would rather come to town and settle that before actually coming on board.

Anyway, we will do our best not to make her feel strange, and I assure you that we will keep her busy.

Sincerely yours,

Special Assistant to
Personnel Director
